A really fun game with the mix of action by using the ships/planes/subs guns and strategy by moving ships to a location by a minimap an coordinating with friends to attack a target, Bad Side Gamespy shut down multiplayer servers, Still a fairly big community of international gamers. (<http://battlestations.eu>) (8.5/10)

. Very, very bad indeed. I can't even recommend it if you see it going cheap, because it will still cost you time. It is poorly conceived and shabbily constructed. I should not have backed this.

The gameplay is extremely simple and unrewarding - you just click items to briefly "haunt" them, and some items can be turned between two angles to reflect projectiles while some can be slid across the floor in response to gusts of air. I'm making that sound better than it is. It's extremely dreary, and there are much better games to be had for free on flash sites. You will not have any kind of fun or excitement here.

On the technical side, there is only one graphical option, and that's your screen resolution. There is no controller support, no language option. The graphics are astonishingly badly modelled, animated and textured, although you only see the models up close in the cut scenes. The music's quite charming the first time you hear it, but you're going to hear the same music and flourishes in the same order over and over again, and it won't seem very appealing then.. this is an ausome game but could use some updates, like I had this idea for a solid state fuel that you mine out of asteroids its less profitable but more spaceships come threw the portal but still I would give this a 7.25 out of 10. I think it's a really great tool for beginners to make first experiments in animation.

It's really easy, and saves a lot of time, especially when animating characters, I really enjoy working with it.

Another big plus, it runs on Linux! And with a community addon (called SpriterGM), it can be easily combined with GameMaker Studio!

I didn't pay the full price, but even if i did it would still be worth it, great software!. Quite hard, and frustrating at times, but I mean It's a Rogue-Like, so yeah... What do you expect?

The game does have some minor flaws, which are connected to it just being released:

- A lack of enemy variety
- The difficulty of actually finding a shop to buy things at, so you're basically stuck with an underpowered stick
- The feeling of all the rooms being pointless up until you actually find a boss or a shop since it seems like there's an infinite amount of rooms

I do recommend this game, however. Since it has lots of potential and I'm a very interested person when it comes down to the evolution of a game. :D. First impression is retrographics similar to Minecraft, but hilarious insanity follows immediately.

Provoke zombies and make them die by accident. Well, long series of "accidents". Which can be diverse. Just like your characters. It is very easy to get addicted.. I picked this up cheap in a sale, and thought it was a rather good insight into managing sats.

Like ever wondered why sats spin? Why it's easier to destroy sats than repair them? Why the orbits are soo messed up?

This game answers a lot of those questions, except it's not really a game, it's sim sat basically.. Nice and fun clicker gem. Unique style, charming main character and a little fun story included. It is, however, relatively short. If you want something different from the usual grind, definitely worth a click.

The only reason I got this game was because I had a coupon and I got this for $0.40. This game seems like the popular mobile games Crossy Road and Smashy Road came together to fight the apocalypse. I'm personally not a huge fan because the game doesn't seem developed all that well. :(In order to understand what I am about to say, you will need to read my review for the base game.

An extension meant to make the game more fun has made the game WORSE than the original. I NEVER liked the base game in general, and it is nearly impossible to even capture ONE Persian settlement. Trash bin. That is where it went after the 28th rage quit from the stupid AI moves on THE SECOND TURN.. This is a cool idea for a game, but unfortunately it's not implemented very well. Movement around the environment is atrocious. The game frequently lost track of where I was, and sometimes items would just randomly drop because they bumped into something. The teleport movement system is really wacky compared to other games and would sometimes let me go through walls.

The puzzles themselves are okay. I really didn't dislike the concept of the game, but playing it was a very frustrating experience. Unless the movement mechanics get an overhaul, I think you can skip this one.. Thanks for supporting Linux and ultrawide screen displays! Very enjoyable combat with just enough depth to keep things fresh. Looking forward to controller support. Combos are a little too tough to keep up, especially with some of the unique enemy types on screen. I like the item unlocks, but wish they were just a little bit easier.. My first impressions of Raid On Coasts weren't incredible, the presentation could use a little work and it all appeared to be a little generic. I still fired it up though, and honestly I was kinda glad I did. What I thought would be a waste of time turned out to be an enjoyable little experience which shows some real potential and promise.

The content for the game is a little thin on the ground, one map and a handful of units means you can see everything in about 30 minutes of playtime. But it's the kind of game that invites repeat plays, I'd just like to see a little more variation each time (plus there's an annoying bug which causes the AI to lose in the first minute of the match, forcing a game restart).

Some minor balancing issues and a lack of identity aside, I'd highly recommend it to anyone who was a fan of Z back in the day (I just wish they could inject a little of that character into this)

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=V3UpDfUs18s>. This is a top down shooter with survival and rpg elements with a minimalist art style and Dark Souls level of difficulty. It is well thought out and feels rewarding when you manage to survive an encounter. Expect to die a lot in the first moments of the game, but get better and the game will make you feel like you earned it.. All right so I'm gonna probably forget but if I remember I'll add reviews of the Guitar tabs for this.

Hammer to Fall - Bass

Very fun to play, requires you to be able to do walk bass or alternate picking with your thumb. Good for people at an Intermediate skill level. Not recommended for Beginner bassists.

I Want To Break Free - Bass

A very simple song, not too much fun to play but everyone has different tastes. Can be quite easy, meant to be played with a pick (Apparently) but it can be easily played with your thumb and fingers if you can do that Overall, good for Beginner-Intermediate bassists.

Somebody to Love - Bass

Very interesting bassline and once you hear it you'll most likely want to keep hearing it. Good for intermediate level bassists, probably not good for Beginners, but you can still try, it might be easy for you.

Overall, great pack. Very weirdly so soon after the 2nd one, too. Worth the price.. bad for multiplayer. Fun cute time killer.
